The Challenge:

If you are a 9-12th grade student in the United States, we want to hear your ideas for building a better future! Your challenge is to research past and future impacts of climate-related hazards in your community, including drought, wildfire, flooding, and extreme heat, then develop a proposed action to help build a more resilient community. Your entry must be original and include a title (max 50 characters), a written explanation of your proposed climate action (200 words max), and an image (max 3GB) of a “poster” that supports your climate action. The poster can be a digital design or a photo of a hand-made poster. Your climate action should explain at least one way your community can prevent, withstand, respond to, or recover from a climate-related event. Your entry should also address how you plan to make your solution a reality (ex. start an organization, a company or create/sell a product).

The grand prize winner will present their poster at the Innovations in Climate Resilience Conference in Washington, D.C. on April 21, and receive a $5,000 STEM grant for a U.S. nonprofit organization, public library, or public school of their choice. The 2nd - 5th place finalists will receive a $1,500 STEM grant for a U.S. nonprofit organization, public library, or public school of their choice.

Students are encouraged to use these five “steps to resilience” to guide their entry development process:

- Understand Exposure & Climate Hazards - What is the normal climate for your community? What is changing or likely to change in your local climate?
- Assess Vulnerability & Risk – What aspects of your community (e.g., roads, parks, schools, businesses) will be affected by a climate hazard?
- Investigate Options – Brainstorm potential actions to help build a more resilient community. Your climate action could be a technology solution, a change of behavior, a school or community program, a response plan, or more. Dream big - the possibilities are endless for a brighter future!
- Prioritize & Plan – Develop a plan to implement your proposed climate action. Your plan should be feasible and scalable within your community.
- Take Action – This student challenge is asking for proposed climate actions. Actual implementation of your proposed action will not be judged; however, we encourage students to take steps in your community, whether big or small, to make your climate action happen.

Your idea has the power to shape the future of your community! For ideas on different types of climate actions, refer to the BRAINSTORM & DESIGN section on the challenge site.

Your participation in this Challenge is governed not only by these Challenge Rules but also by the GENERAL RULES, which are incorporated herein.
